To The Class of 2014

Many say that we dream in black and white, but today you can claim that your dreams are full of color, purpose and life; Black representing the power within each of you and Gold symbolizing the bright aspirations you defend.

For the last four years you have dreamed about graduating from high school. In a few short months, your dreams will become a reality. This is the first of many dreams that you will pursue in your lifetime. Although your freshman year seemed hopeless, thanks to the leadership of Mr. Mills and the tireless efforts of the administrative team and teachers, your sophomore year was transformed and your chances of success were reclaimed, making your dreams achievable and your Bulldog spirit restored.

As you navigate through educational and career choices dreams are essential for discovering your full potential. Through encouragement and support, you are now better prepared to show the world how capable you are.

When your dreams are challenged, it is important not to give up. All dreams are worth pursuing. Remember the path that was laid out for you and the endless support and encouragement that was always constant. Believe in your dreams and know that all of them can come true. The once black and white dreams are now filled with Bulldog pride and the colors of anticipation of what your bright future holds. Just remember that your dreams can be as bright and as bold as you dare them to be.

Principal's Message

Mr. Gemar Mills
Principal

Dreams are today's answers to tomorrow's questions.

- Edgar Cayce

Can you believe it? Four years ago, most of you walked the halls of Shabazz High School nervous and afraid. You were freshmen, the puppies of the school. Now, four years later, you have grown to be bulldogs.

It has been a long four years and a short four years. Long, because of all the adversity we have faced while transforming Shabazz from an institution crumbling to a school on the rise to greatness. Short, because of the life-long friendships, the lasting memories, and the truly interesting and amazing things you have learned. Good or bad, long or short, you will always remember this place and I will never forget the time that we have shared.

You may not understand the significance of this triumph today; however, as you embark on your next journey you will begin to realize that you possess something that most people lack. What you have, money cannot buy. It's called "Drive" and it cannot be purchased at Wal-Mart, or any of the stores on Broad Street. Always embrace and nurture the drive you possess. As you continue to have success in life, many people you encounter will quit trying. It has been said that "The person who scored well on an SAT will not necessarily be the best doctor or the best lawyer or the best businessman. These tests do not measure character, leadership, creativity, or perseverance." This is why some people with mediocre talent, but great inner drive, go so much further than people with superior talent.

I am extremely proud of each and every one of you. Always remember that you represent the excellence that Malcolm X Shabazz High School fought for and you are responsible for protecting the "House" that "WE" have built. Let the blood that flows through your veins be Black and Gold and your hearts, bodies, and minds be filled with bulldog soul.

I can't believe this is really happening. I can't believe you are graduating and going out into the real world. Congratulations on such an achievement. You all were my first group of students, and I loved being with you all for the last four years. While I did not get a chance to teach all of you, you all have taught me a thing or two! I'm so proud with the way you have grown since you were freshmen. My advice for you? Never stop trying. No matter where life takes you or what life throws at you, keep pushing on. Don't lose sight of your goals. "Life moves pretty fast. If you don't stop and look around once in a while, you could miss it."

Congratulations!
Sincerely,
Kelly Grapentine

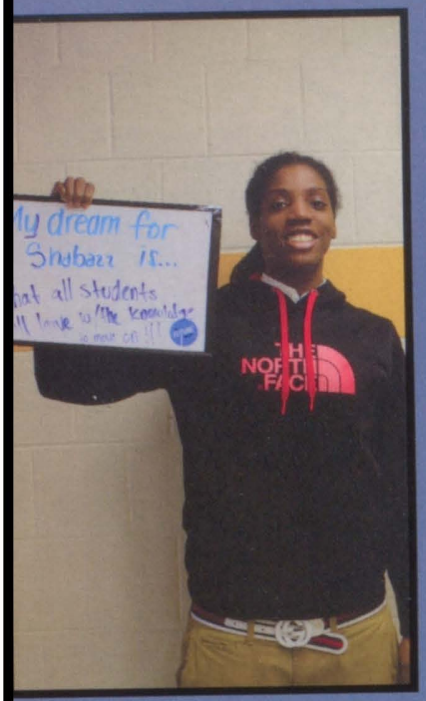

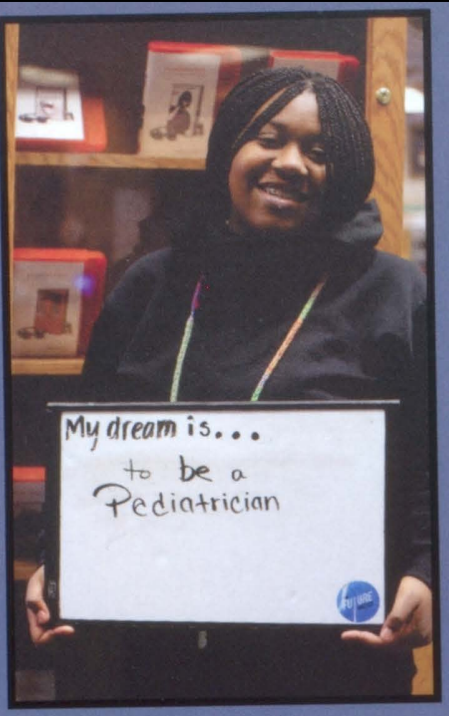

To The Class of 2014

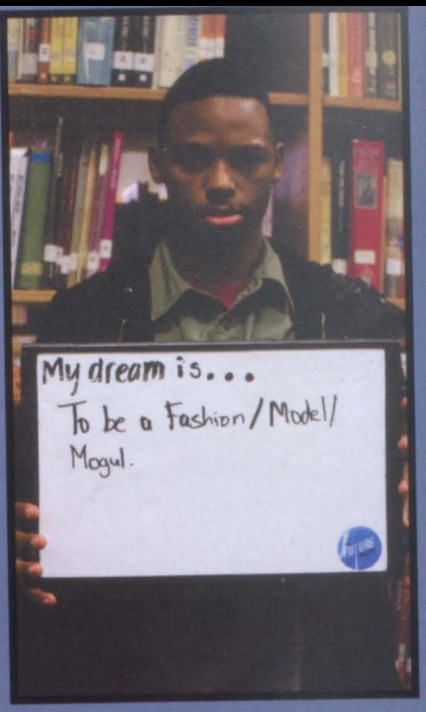

Your class has undergone and witnessed much change over the past four years. The rest of your life will continue to be filled with changes.

I challenge you to embrace these changes and demonstrate the necessary courage to face and overcome your fears. In the midst of all these changes, stay focused, remember to take time to reflect on your many accomplishments, but never forget how much work still has to be done. Use your dreams to claim your place in society. Remember that challenges are inevitable; overcoming them is evidence that dreams are attainable. The best years of your life are yet to come!

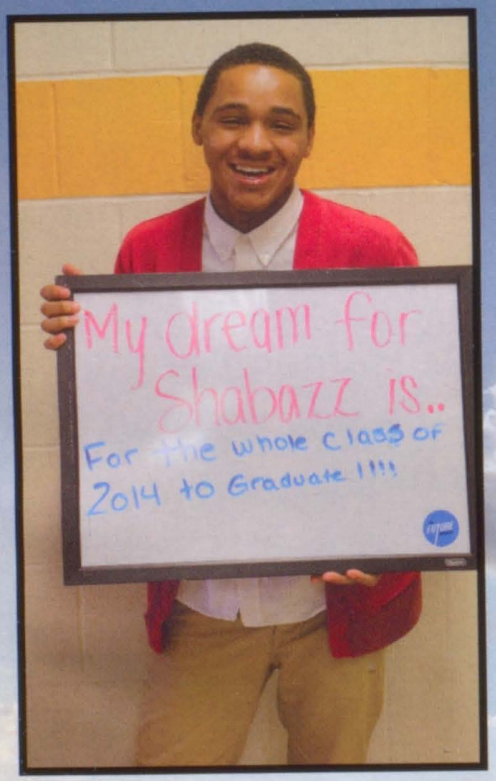

Congratulations and all the Best!

BIG DREAMERS

THE FUTURE PROJECT

Mr. Divine Bradley, Dream Director, introduced the "Future Project" in the fall 2013. He's been dedicated to creating a new generation of leaders, a charge he's taken to Malcolm X Shabazz High School and the entire City of Newark. He shared the mission of the Future Project and challenged students and faculty to dream big.

The Future Project's mission is to transform Newark's high schools into "Future Schools" as the most inspired places on earth, magical places that ignite passion and empower students to define success on their own terms.

With collaboration among administration, faculty, the community, and various outside agencies, Mr. Bradley and the Future Project staff has encouraged and empowered students to realize their potential by allowing them to be creative and think outside of the box.

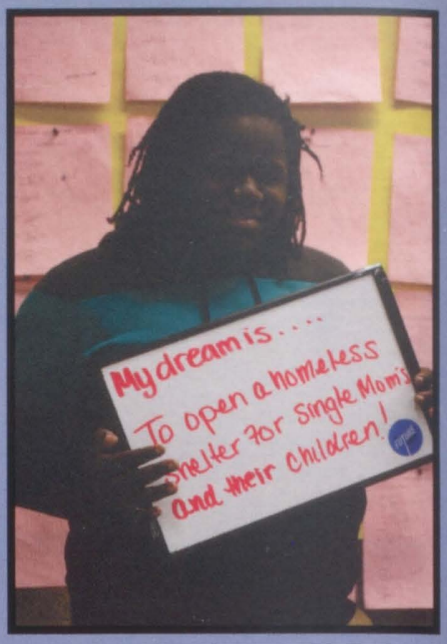

Sentiments expressed by Mr. Bradley include:

"The school is held near and dear to my heart. The students and faculty are blessed to have a dynamic leader, Principal Gemar Mills, who embraced the Future Project with open arms and was a BIG DREAMER from day one."

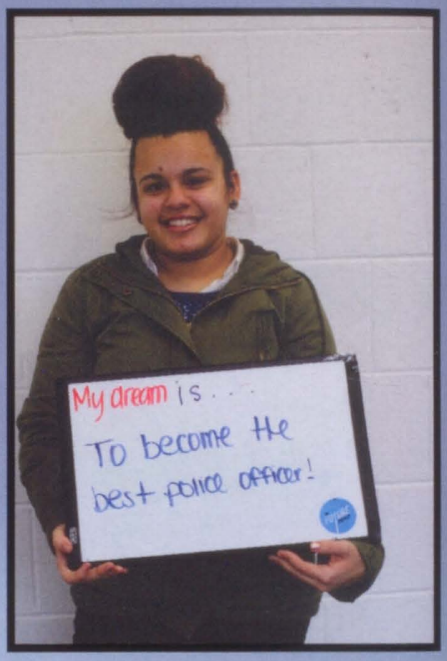

"I want to thank the entire faculty who allowed us to dream big and feel appreciated. To all the staff that stayed committed to coaching and mentoring our student dreamers. THANK YOU. It takes a village and Malcolm X Shabazz High School is certainly one of the best educational communities in Brick City aka DREAM CITY."

Surround your life with your FUTURE!

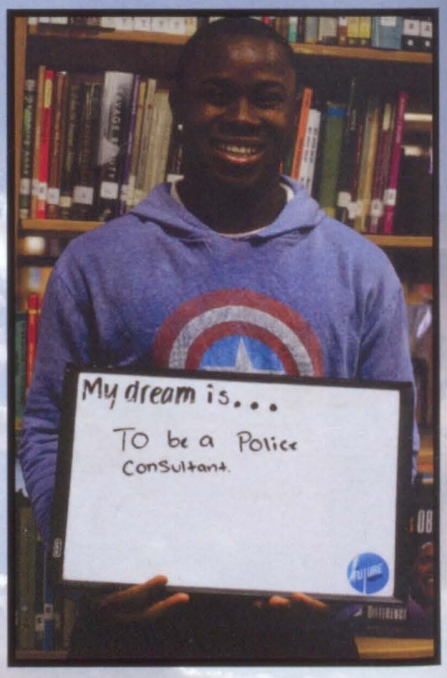

My Dream Is.....

My dream is to paint the walls of schools so that students can have something to look forward to and become as effervescent as the walls around them. I've always dreamed of painting murals. It wasn't until I met Divine Bradley, who persistently questioned me about my dreams, that I realized that others do care about my dreams. Out of the few high schools I attended, I've never found one where the staff members took so much interest in my dreams. As young men and women, we can look back and acknowledge that they truly cared about us.

Principle Mills is a big part of this change. I believe that the reason it was so easy for him to make this change is because he is young. He knows, first hand, what we go through outside of school and what happens in the streets. He knows that the majority of his students are having a hard time outside of school. He comes here faithfully pushing and encouraging us to push for success and to dream big. As a part of the senior class I want to say: "Never give up on your dreams."

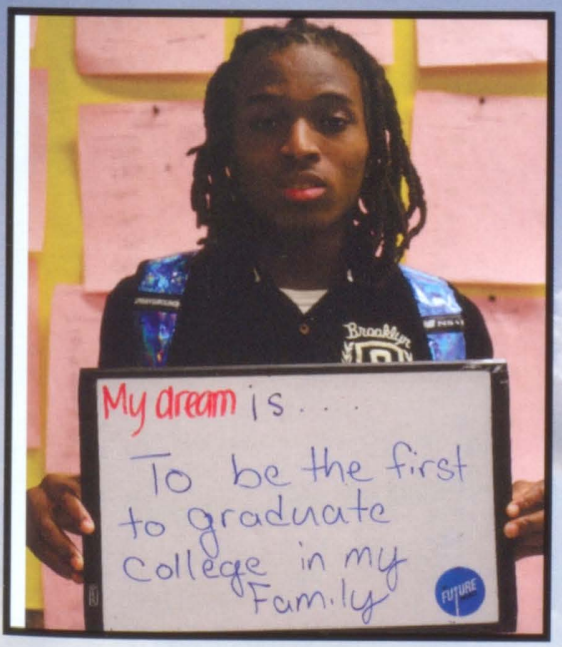

Big Dreamer,
Briana Franklin

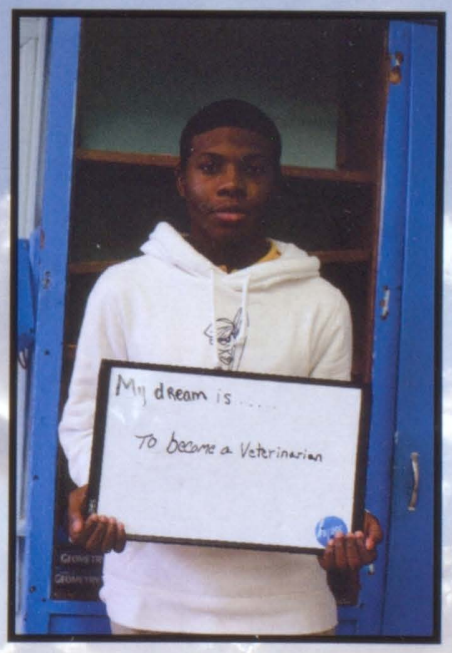

My dream for students all over the inner cities is for the college rate to rise, not to just acceptable levels, but to astonishing levels.

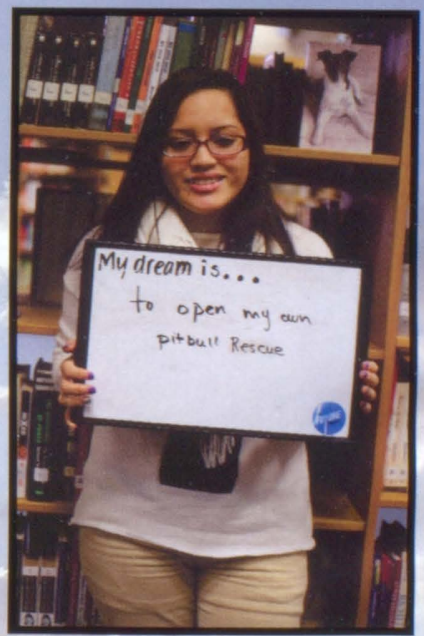

When Divine Bradley arrived at Malcolm X Shabazz High School, he inspired students to have a dream. The dream has always been within us, one that benefits us and Newark, and eventually the world. Other students have seen their dreams come into fruition just with Divine's wise words alone - a connection. One student has even started up her own viral sneaker store.

Tests scores have risen since last year, but there is still room for improvement. Inner city schools, like Malcolm X Shabazz, and its students are often considered inferior to suburban schools. It needs to be conveyed that inner city students, despite the lack of resources, are just as intelligent and capable of setting and reaching positive goals. Besides restoring Newark's good name, the ultimate goal is to get inner city kids into college and become successful.

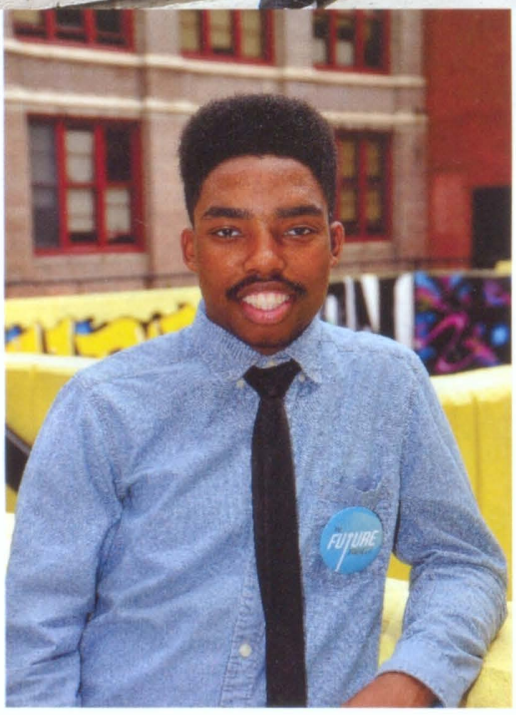

Big Dreamer,
Kelechi Beasley

Dedication

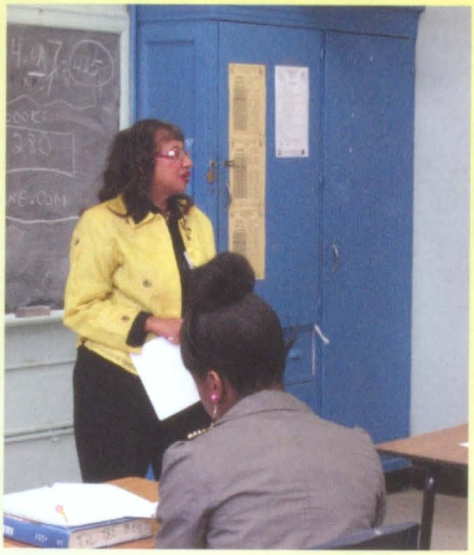

The Malcolm X Shabazz Class of 2014 would like to dedicate this yearbook to the South Side/Malcolm X Shabazz Alumni Association.

Your continued support and efforts to help Principal Mills keep our schools open, safe and secure will never be forgotten.

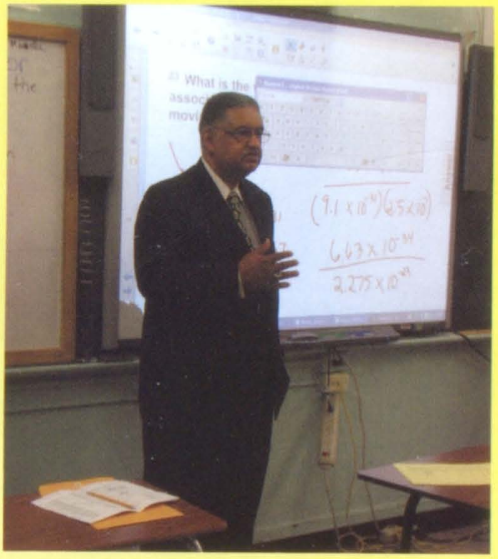

When surviving the hard times seemed dismal at times, you stepped in and helped us reclaim our School's dreams and missions. Without your strong guidance, support, and faith in our principal, our students, and in our community, Malcolm X Shabazz High School would not have been prepared to overcome the changes we have recently witnessed.

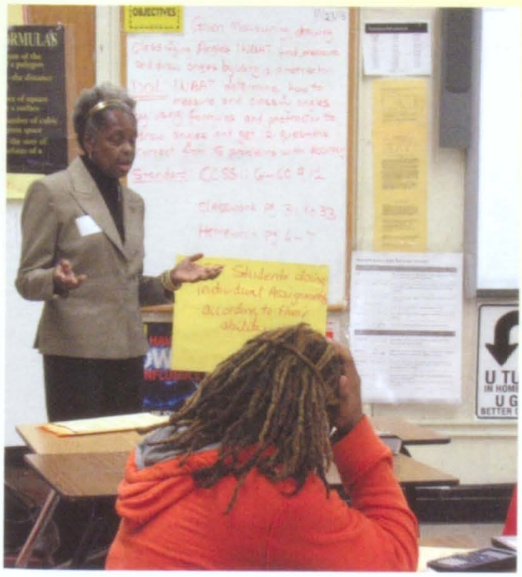

We are all thankful and appreciative of your support and for your shining Bull Dog Spirit.
